"Our plan is not for a long strike," he said. "We are going out for one week and then from time to time might repeat the operation."

Bowes Says He's Alive
New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Major Edward Bowes, whose life of retirement has been interrupted at least twice weekly in recent months by reports that he was dead, is alive and very much so, he'd like everyone to know.

He said the real complaining party in the trial was civilization, which "is still a struggling and imperfect thing."

"It does not plead that the United States or any other country has been blameless of the conditions which made the German people easy victims of the blandishments and intimidations of the Nazi conspirators."

"But it points to the dreadful sequence of aggressions and crimes I have recited—it points to the weariness of the flesh, the exhaustion of resources and the destruction of all that was beautiful or useful in so much of the world, and to greater potentialities for destruction in the days to come."

The prisoners exhibited increased friendliness among themselves and engaged in animated conversations before the trial reconvened for the afternoon session.

Only a third of Jackson's opening statement had been read at the morning session. As he continued, Hess alone among the defendants did not put on his earphones to hear the German translation.

Jackson Presents American Case

morning session was reached when Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding, called the defendants forward one by one, warning them to plead merely innocent or guilty and to refrain from speeches which they would be permitted to make later.

Go to Microphone
Despite the warning, Hermann Goering, stripped of his medals and insignia as German Reichsmarshal, lumbered to the microphone with a prepared speech in his hand and attempted to read it.

Presiding Lord Justice Geoffrey Lawrence halted him. Then, with an angry grimace, Goering intoned:

"I declare myself in the sense of the indictment not guilty."

He waddled back to his seat. "Hess" barked "no" was officially recorded as "not guilty."

The court has not yet ruled in Hess' sanity, but since he was permitted to plead it was assumed he would be tried with the rest.

The court called Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, still shaky from his near-collapse yesterday.

"Not guilty," he announced. Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel: "Not guilty."

Nazi philosopher Alfred Rosenberg: "I declare myself in the sense of the indictment not guilty."

When all the defendants had pleaded innocence, Lord Justice Lawrence ruled that Ernest Kaltenbrunner, Nazi security chief who was unable to appear because of a cranial hemorrhage, would be tried in absentia.

He also tightened the rules for trial procedure, when he ruled in answer to a protest that counsel cannot talk to defendants in court except by written note.

Jackson's Statement
Justice Jackson, in a 20,000-word statement to the court, asserted:

"They have subjected their European neighbors to every outrage and torture, every spoliation and deprivation, that insolence, cruelty and greed could inflict."

"They have brought the German people to the lowest pit of wretchedness, from which they can entertain no hope of early deliverance. They have incited domestic violence in every continent."

He said the real complaining party in the trial was civilization, which "is still a struggling and imperfect thing."

"It does not plead that the United States or any other country has been blameless of the conditions which made the German people easy victims of the blandishments and intimidations of the Nazi conspirators."

"But it points to the dreadful sequence of aggressions and crimes I have recited—it points to the weariness of the flesh, the exhaustion of resources and the destruction of all that was beautiful or useful in so much of the world, and to greater potentialities for destruction in the days to come."

The prisoners exhibited increased friendliness among themselves and engaged in animated conversations before the trial reconvened for the afternoon session.

Only a third of Jackson's opening statement had been read at the morning session. As he continued, Hess alone among the defendants did not put on his earphones to hear the German translation.

opened to the board. The other was that any wage increases granted by the arbitrator could not be used as a basis for price increases.

"None of its business."

Throughout negotiations General Motors has maintained in effect, that matters of company prices and profits were "none of the union's business."

Thomas and Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W.-C.I.O. vice president, issued a statement calling General Motors' offer to reply to the arbitration proposal by Friday a "stall pure and simple."

"The deliberate provocation and capricious irresponsibility of the small group of industrial and financial bureaucrats who control General Motors and who contemptuously disregard the interests of workers, consumers and choice," the two union leaders declared in issuing the strike call.

Ever since the wage drive was launched the union has made it plain that General Motors would be selected as the "target" for Reuther, explaining the strategy, said G.M. "carries the tune" for the rest of the auto industry. Any concessions gained from the biggest of the "Big Three," he said, are virtually gained for the entire industry.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

A.F. Foreign Affairs Analyst

The other day there died in Tennessee a man named Luke Lea.

One of the high points of his very active life (he was soldier, publisher, senator) was an attempt to kidnap the Kaiser.

Colonel Lea and a handful of picked followers essayed the capture of the German emperor in Holland shortly after the end of World War One because all the Allied bluster about trying war criminals, and the shouts of "hang the Kaiser," proved to have been the thumping of an empty tub.

Lea and his colleagues decided to take the matter into their own hands.

The colonel was living ahead of his time. Today—a generation later—the Nuremberg trials are under way, and a score of Nazi leaders are facing judgement for the part they played in Hitler's assault on humanity. The other day Joseph Kramer, the "Beast of Belzec," and 29 others were convicted by the British at Luneburg for the horrors of the Belzen and Oswiecim concentration camps.

And Japan's war-lords are being brought to book.

These trials, as I see it, mark a world movement in the right direction. It's difficult for you and me, as we think of loved ones lost in this cruel war, to see good coming out of such a conflict. But it is indeed a hopeful sign that the world should rise up and declare itself against the crime of war.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief prosecutor for the United States at Nuremberg, declared in his opening address before the tribunal:

"The real complaining party at your bar is civilization."

Well, what does that mean? It means that at long last world consciousness has been aroused and solidified against the barbarism of war.

Justice said that the time has arrived when right-minded folk of all countries can combine against a common menace. It's one of the signs that we are approaching real world unity.

A generation ago the world recognized that German's aggression was wicked and ought to be punished. But international politics kept nations from carrying out their duty—there was no unity of purpose.

However, this second World War has brought the forces of good and evil out into open conflict in which there can be no quarter. We are set for the greatest house-cleaning our globe ever has seen.

But the war has done more than that. It has reduced the world to the size of a crab-apple in-so-far as international relations are concerned. Henceforth we must operate as one community, and this means that law and order must be maintained as a community interest. Hence the trials of those charged with war crimes.

It's true that such trials are an innovation, and the defense claims that the tribunal lacks jurisdiction. We shouldn't let that cause any qualms, however, for all law over the centuries has developed through innovations which the time demanded.

The need for the trials is clearly shown in Justice Jackson's declaration that "these prisoners represent similar influences that will lurk in the world long after they are living symbols of racial hatreds, of terrorism and cruelty of power."

Justice will be served. The American prosecutor stated that he would try to convict the Nazis with the written records, which they have kept rather than by testimony of their foes.

There is no count of the indictment that cannot be proved by books and records," he said.

tion by Senator Tamm (D., Del.) that they are "gentlemen in borrowed kimonos" acting as "apologetic for Japan."

Tamm made the assertion in a Senate speech late yesterday after asserting the two Republican members from that chamber were trying to "smirch the memory" of Mr. Roosevelt.

The Senate does not meet again until Friday.

Testimony Dramatic

Before the outburst on the Senate floor, Richardson—stocky, pipe-smoking retired admiral—had provided the committee with some dramatic testimony. Among the high points:

Richardson said President Roosevelt suggested in October, 1940, the establishment of ship patrol lines from Hawaii to Asia to cut off Japanese trade with the Americas if the Japs moved against the British because of the opening of the Burma Road.

The witness said he was "amazed" at the proposal and opposed it because he felt it meant war for which the fleet was not prepared.

Richardson expressed the opinion that in the same month Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck, state department adviser, "was exerting a greater influence over the disposition of the fleet than I was."

Hornbeck now is ambassador to the Netherlands.

Richardson testified that Admiral Leahy advised against sending any additional ships to the Asiatic fleet, contending that if dispatched there would be lost if war came.

Secretary Hull told the witness in July, 1940, he said, that "we should take a very strong position and that retention of the fleet in Hawaii was a reflection of that strong attitude."

Richardson stated that he came away from the July conference with the President, Hull and others "with the distinct impression that there was an opinion in Washington that Japan could be bluff."

Richardson said it "passes my comprehension" why the navy was not informed at the same time when the War Department ordered army forces on the alert in Hawaii June 18, 1940.

organization of an Anglo-American Palestine commission.

A report by Byron Price on conditions in Germany probably will be issued soon. Price visited Germany as a special representative of the President and studied relations between American occupation forces and the German people.

He already has spoken out sharply against the failure—which he blames on the French—to organize national agencies for dealing with German food and similar problems.

Creation of a United Nations commission to tackle the problem of atomic energy controls began to shape up as one of the outstanding issues for the organizational meeting of the United Nations at London in January.

The President said he had not yet heard from France, China, and Russia on the proposal out-forward by Prime Minister Attlee, Mackenzie King and himself to have the United Nations undertake to set up atomic energy controls.

Replying to questions, he said that atomic bombs still are being manufactured in this country for experimental purposes. He did not define these purposes, but he added that the bombs could be used for peaceful purposes just as well because the whole objective of the Anglo-American-Canadian program is to convert all atomic energy to peaceful uses.

West Is Rebelling Against Eastern Dictums in Trade

By SIGRID ARNE

AP Newsfeatures Writer

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (AP)—The growing revolt against the many years in which the West had to take what manufactured goods the East offered—at prices set by the East—has come to a head here in a determined drive to set up a western steel industry.

The "makings" are here, partly due to the bonanza the war brought to the West, but the decision lies with the Surplus Property Administration and with Congress.

First, there are the two new industrial giants: The Fontana steel plant, 50 miles east of Los Angeles, and the Geneva steel plant, 40 miles south of Salt Lake City.

There are some two million new citizens in the West, most of them want to stay. If they do they'll be buying, and they'll need jobs.

The 11 western states have half the nation's coal reserves. They have coke and the iron in Utah and California—the major ingredients for steel.

Before the war the West just wasn't much of a manufacturing area. It was sparsely settled to make it cheaper to import manufactured goods from the East. It turned out mostly food, lumber, ores.

But now it has 2,800 metal working plants which grew up to feed shipyards and plane plants. It has thousands of workers with new skills.

Further, the West's traditional industries are larger users of steel.

The canned food industry takes a third of all the tin-plate the nation makes each year. Oil and gas needs pipes, drills, tanks, pumps. Mining and lumber need heavy machinery. Seattle and Los Angeles, between them, turned out the major prewar production of planes.

There were seven small steel plants in the West before the war, scattered from Seattle to San Francisco. But they turned out a limited product; not near enough of the sheet steel needed for consumer products.

Most Modern Plate Mill

Now, the Geneva plant, in Utah, is the world's most modern continuous plate mill. Fontana is close on its heels.

The West wants to say good-bye to salesmen from Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and New England, at least for those products in which it can cut the price.

There are several high hurdles to take to reach this dream.

First, congress must decide what to do with Geneva and Fontana, since the surplus property act says congress must concern when property worth more than $5,000,000 is considered.

Geneva is owned by the government. It was run through the war by U. S. Steel which says it has no more interest in the plant.

Instead, U. S. Steel has announced a $25,000,000 plan in the bay area to take the cream of the western steel market—the tin-plate production. Their plant will be the largest of its kind in the world.

However, several concerns are interested in Geneva, including the west's ship-building magnate, Henry Kaiser.

Kaiser owns Fontana, although it was built for the most part with an R.E.C. loan. However, under that contract Kaiser agreed to set aside a proportion of profits from other enterprises to amortize the loan. Reports now say that some $40,000,000 million has accumulated.

Geneva cost $190,000,000. Fontana $110,000,000. Both will take several million dollars to convert to peacetime products, since they were built primarily to rush heavy plates for ships.

Both were built at top speed in an inflated market and cost was no object. No private concern could operate them in a competitive market with such an investment to write off.

So it's recognized the government will have to write down the cost of the plants for whatever buyers eventually. That is now in the dickering stage and on the settlement largely depends whether or not the western steel makers can take over their local markets.

It may also be that the final disposition will be determined by military considerations, rather night by aid of a spotlight attached to an automobile, was settled by the Conservation Department Monday. Charged with such violation on the night of November 9, Myndera Russell of Saugerties, settled for $25, in a civil compromise.

Author's Death Was Due to Heart Attack; Pulitzer Winner

Richmond, Va., Nov. 21 (AP)—Ellen Glasgow, nationally known author, died after a long illness this morning in the Richmond home where she had lived most of her life. She was 71.

Miss Glasgow's immediate death was due to a heart attack.

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1942 for her latest book, "In This Our Life," Miss Glasgow first won fame in the early 1900's with her book, "The Voice of the People." She was recognized as one of the first of the southern writers to leave the honeysuckle and magnolia school to deal in realism.

Public attention was drawn toward municipal problems by the local government conference, State Comptroller Frank C. Moore said at its close, but city officials who aired their views there apparently were out after state attention.

Summarizing the two-day conference which he called, Moore described it yesterday as "the initial step in bringing divergent points of view to bear" on the problems which municipalities face.

These, he said, arise out of the necessity of increasing war-curtail public services while public funds from taxation remain constant, or possibly decline.

Local government officials, were outspoken in their bids for a change in state-city relations.

Joseph D. McGoldrick, New York city comptroller, stumped for "bork rule," meaning, he said, "freedom from mandatory expenditures," and "wider powers of the city to work out its own problems."

"The state should not interfere," McGoldrick told the 250 conferees, "unless it is willing to bear the financial load which it imposes."

Moore, who heads a state commission studying "state aid," or the sharing of state-collected taxes with political subdivisions, called the municipal officials together for a "preview of local government."

The More Commission's findings are being correlated with those of the Ostertag Committee studying local welfare administration, and legislation based on the two groups' recommendations will be a major concern of the Legislature in 1946.

Governor Dewey, who has not divulged the contents of the Moore Commission's final report, assured the conference that the report would "achieve its objectives." He termed the system of state aid "antiquated," and expressed confidence that there would be closer cooperation in the future between the state and localities.

than commercial. For defense, it would be safer to have these two plants outside the concentrated Detroit-Pittsburgh-New England triangle.

Inducted Into U. S. Army

Captain Harry W. Smith is shown inducting into the U. S. Army Clarence Louis Gardner of 65 Gage street, John August Burke of 205 Downs street and George Lemuel Woodworth of 92 Foxhall Avenue. These young men enlisted at the Kingston recruiting office in the Post-office building, which has been given authority to induct into the U. S. Army all men recruited from Ulster county. The above men chose the military police branch and asked for overseas duty in the E.T.O. From Kingston they will go to a reception center at Fort Hancock and thence to a military police training unit.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

Hometown Boy

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—John A. Barker, 70, New York Central engineer who will retire December 1 after 56 years of railroad, estimates he has traveled more than 1,000,000 miles without getting out of the city.

"From '95 to '97 and again in 1901 I went firing—fired 'em all between here and Syracuse," Barker recalls. "In 1902, I became an engineer and I've been at it ever since right here in Buffalo on a yard full. Never cared to get out on the main line."

Calling a Hero

Gallup, N. M., Nov. 21 (AP)—J. L. Cordova, junior high school janitor, inserted this newspaper ad:

"I have a family of five and am amply providing for them through this job. However, I did nothing but work for wages (top prices) to win this war. With this thought in mind I am willing to sacrifice my job to any serviceman who fought and bled for my country and my family. Boys, come and get it."

Biggest Ambition

Fort Lewis, Wash., Nov. 21 (AP)—A Vac interviewer at the Fort Lewis Separation Center was trying to convince a G.I. about to be discharged of the value of investing in victory bonds.

"You don't want to end up selling apples, do you?" she warned. "You bet I do," the soldier replied with sudden interest.

"I own an apple orchard in Wenatchee."

Wise Move

Grand, Neb., Nov. 21 (AP)—Ed W. Harvey, an official of the Consumers Public Power Company, moved a house 26 miles to retain the company's district manager in Grant.

The manager told Harvey he would be forced to resign because after several months of house hunting, he couldn't find a place to live.

Harvey arranged to have a six room house moved from Keystone to Grant, 26 miles, for the manager.

Applications Are High

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Applications for unemployment insurance benefits and federal veterans' readjustment allowances in New York state totaled 10,000 more during the week ended November 2 than in the previous week. Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi reported yesterday that 218,840 persons had filed for unemployment pay and 42,790 for veterans' allowances. The total of 261,630 compared with the previous week's 250,754.

The flag of the Pan-American union is a pennant adopted in 1907 and embodies all of the colors of the 21 republics of the western hemisphere.

U. S. May Not Name Envoy to Spain

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The possibility arose today that the United States may further indicate its dislike of the Franco government by leaving open the about-to-be-vacated post of ambassador to Spain.

American diplomats who know say Norman Armour is about to retire from the assignment. The 68-year-old careerist entered the State Department 33 years ago and is eligible for a pension.

The diplomats, while making it plain to reporters that Armour was not being withdrawn, said this country might refrain from naming a successor for some time.

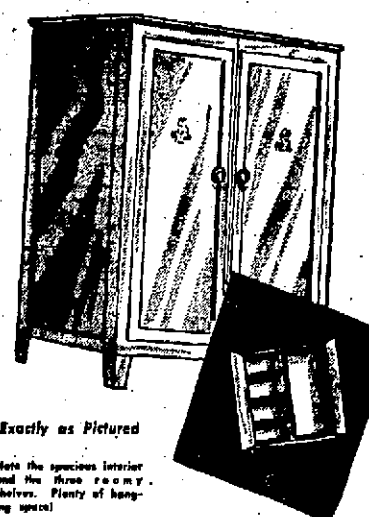

Parcel post was introduced in the U. S. on Jan. 1, 1913; in England an inland parcel post was established in 1883.

No Collections Thursday
No ashes or rubbish will be collected Thursday in the city by the street department, but the same will be taken up on Friday.

First Day Seals Sales Are High

Purchases Amount to $647 on Opening of Campaign

Christmas Seal purchases on the first day of their sale amounted to $647.05 it was announced yesterday by Harry S. Ensign, chairman of the campaign for the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association. The seals, which finance tuberculosis control work, went on sale Monday and will be available until Christmas.

The amount received yesterday was from residents who mailed their contributions immediately upon receiving the seals in their mail Monday, according to Mr. Ensign, who expressed appreciation to these individuals for their promptness in making returns.

"We have set a goal of $17,500 to be raised in Ulster County," he said. "This sum is essential if we are to protect the health of our community. We must raise this sum to carry on the 1946 program necessary to protect the health of our community."

The very first contributor to reach the Christmas Seals office on Monday morning were the checks of William Barry and Harvey Davis of Kingston. Mr. Barry and Mr. Davis are both employees of the Kingston Post Office.

The immediate response of so many residents to our appeal indicates that there is a general awareness of the importance of controlling tuberculosis. A prompt response from those others who received Christmas Seals in their mail Monday will be extremely helpful in planning next year's work.

Army May Make Transcontinental Plane Record Try

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Army Air Forces, with a new world long distance flight record hung up for the B-29, is expected to make a transcontinental speed try later this week with an experimental plane.

It was learned today that an attempted west-to-east speed hop is planned for Thanksgiving Day, using an airplane presently designated as XB-42 and built by Douglas Aircraft Company. Little information has been forthcoming on the plane, reported to be of about medium bomber size.

The hop is expected to be run from the area of Los Angeles to Washington.

Present cross-country non-stop records range between six and seven hours for various types of planes.

Technicians were checking over the instruments of a B-29 which landed in Washington yesterday after setting the longest non-stop flight record in history, 6,198 miles nonstop from Guam. The trip far exceeded the 7,153 miles set by two British planes in 1938 on a flight from Egypt to Australia.

The Superfortress battled a half dozen storm areas in getting through to the North American coast in the vicinity of Seattle. From a point off the west coast to Washington the bomber coasted on three engines, with one cut out as a fuel-economizing measure. About 300 gallons of gasoline remained in the tanks when the plane landed.

The two additional acts on the program are Ben Yost's Viking Sextet and Joe Arena with a Little Surprise. These presentations are highly recommended by Harry Moss, of Associated Booking Corp., who collaborated with Mr. Rafalowsky in arranging the show.

"You are certainly crowded with stars," he said as he signed the two extra acts, "and Kingston people will see one of the best shows ever staged in your city," he advised the committees for the ball.

Master of Ceremonies Henry Nadell, "Professor of Laughter," will introduce the performers in this order: Rag Peuri and Yo Yo, comedians and dancers.

Joe Arena and a Little Surprise, recently at Loew's State, New York.

Sid Gary, romantic baritone. Diamond Brothers, comedy specialists of the Earl Carroll Vanities and George White Scandals. Hilde Simmons, cyclone of song at the boogie piano.

Then Nadell will do a turn himself. Carlos and Chita, sophisticated ballroom dancers.

After the show, "Scat" Davis will play for dancing until 1:30 a. m.

A heavy advance sale of tickets indicates that those desiring good seats will have to arrive at 7 o'clock when the doors open. The band will play an overture at 8:15 and 8:45 is set as the time for brief talks by Chairman Rafalowsky.

Highlighting the parade of stars is Johnny "Scat" Davis, whose band has played on all of the major networks, and is regarded as one of the top-flight musical organizations in the country. "The dance floor is always crowded wherever he plays," is what one theatrical publication said about the ensemble directed by Davis who was with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians for seven seasons prior to going out on his own.

"Scat" does a lot of the heavy work himself. He does vocals and steps to the front with his trumpet to play his own compositions that have made him popular as a recording artist and radio celebrity.

"I'm predicting that 'Scat's' band will make a decided hit with Kingstonians who will remember it as one of the best they've ever heard in the auditorium," Chairman Rafalowsky remarked.
